

NOW AVAILABLE!
Exploring Kentucky's African American Past
A Special Issue of the
Register of the Kentucky Historical Society*, Volume 109, Numbers 3 & 4
(Summer/Autumn 2011)

Gerald L. Smith
Guest Editor

This special double issue of the Register of the Kentucky Historical Society brings together new and enduring scholarship that probes significant aspects of Kentucky African American history. Copies may be purchased by contacting Leslie Miller, membership associate, Kentucky Historical Society, Leslie.Miller@ky.gov. The price is $12.00.

“Collectively, the essays serve as a solid portrayal of black community life, institutions, organizations, and individuals in both nineteenth- and twentieth-century Kentucky.” Introduction by Gerald L. Smith

Foreword

George C. Wright, Research on Kentucky Blacks, Revisited

Introduction

Gerald L. Smith, Kentucky African Americans: “So Much Remains to be Told”

Articles

J. Blaine Hudson, “Upon This Rock”—The Free African American Community of Antebellum Louisville, Kentucky

John A. Hardin, “Kentucky Is More Or Less Civilized”: Alfred Carroll, Charles Eubanks, Lyman Johnson, and the Desegregation of Kentucky Higher Education, 1939-1949

Gerald L. Smith, Direct-Action Protests in the Upper South: Kentucky Chapters of the Congress of Racial Equality

Joshua D. Farrington, “Even I Voted Republican”: African American Voters and Public Accommodations in Louisville, Kentucky, 1960-1961

Sallie L. Powell, “It Is Hard to be What You Have not Seen”: Brenda Hughes and the Black And White of the Zebra Shirt—Race and Gender in Kentucky High School Basketball

The Register of the Kentucky Historical Society, first published in 1903, is the oldest peer-reviewed journal dedicated to Kentucky history. Subscriptions to the Register are a benefit of membership in the Kentucky Historical Society.

To become a member of the Kentucky Historical Society, visit our website at <http://history.ky.gov/> and click on the GIVE/JOIN link at the top or contact Leslie Miller, membership associate, Leslie.Miller@ky.gov, for more information.